

CANADIAN BUDDHIST COUNCIL

3 Brimley Road, Unit 501
Scarborough, M1M 3W2 Ontario.
Phone 416 269 1020 barua_s@hotmail.com

Tuesday, May 22, 2007

Dear Sir,

Please find a newspaper of the University of Toronto in your E- mail and published in the CAN-INDIA (www.canindia.com) "LETTERS TO THE EDITOR", page 04, dated March 16, 2007 in Toronto.

CANADIAN RACISM IN THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO & WORK PLACES

By Sona Kanti Barua

As we read in your education page "Ontario Universities: Your Gateway to Higher Learning" in your Canindia (p. 27) dated March 09, 2007 and there is a racism in the university of Toronto as it attached herewith. It is challenging in relating to get a degree from a university or finding a job in conquering racism and discrimination for any old and new immigrants. It is remarkable that the triumph over prejudice and ignorance is a triumph for us all. Canadian experiences don't come from sky or from other countries. After getting a job in Canada, then Canadian experiences obtain by any immigrant. Despite controversy, racism has to be addressed. As an example University of Toronto's Newspaper (Students' Independent) weekly dated 31, 2002 well documented racist report as indicated, " Here is a student who privileged who gets away with we routinely punish for who aren't native speakers of English, especially students from the third world." Please publish this news in your the Contact. Canadian racism is a process of sterilization. Education without job or wealth is barren. Each is necessary to everyone. Human Rights are necessary for the growth of a man or human development.

In such cases, the university must allow the fullest range of debate. It should not limit that debate by preordaining conclusions or punishing or inhibiting the reasonable exercise of free investigation to get peace and justice. We recognize all human beings are endowed with the inalienable dignities of equality and uniqueness which makes each of us precious beyond measure. We are governed by our compassion for each other, our humanity and common family.

Canada's commitment to multiculturalism is special among western democracies. Canadian courts have shown a willingness to pierce through the veil of fear and ignorance when it comes to weighting the balance freedom and harm. Can the employment system and court of public opinion do the same?

It is remarkable that the public justice concern both coalitions are actively pursuing at Queen's Park with respect to (1) the urgent need to protect parental rights in education Act, and (2) the Ministry of Education's constitutional obligation to allow parents and students their free choice regarding the kind of publicly funded religious education and religious schools they want in keeping with their diverse faith and value commitments. In finding a job and including the Multi-faith Coalition's constitutional court challenge involving the freedom of conscience and religion (section 2) and the equality rights (section 15) guaranteed in the" The Charter of Rights and Freedom."

In this famous book, "Machines as the Measure of Men: Science, Technology and ideologies of Western Dominance," the author Michael Adas writes, "In the long term interests of the peoples brought under European rule (p. 200)."Clash of civilizations was started when Europeans became superman with scientific invention and technological progress. Thus western colonial rulers and Christian missionaries delve deep into Eastern and African civilizations not for edification, but destructive criticism and disparagement.

However, for a job to every adult immigrant is a human right that has been recognized by the United Nations' Universal Declaration of Human Rights (1948) and endorsed by the Government of Canada and its heart shows, "Humanity alone is victorious."

The writer is Sona Kanti Barua, President, barua_s@hotmail.com Canadian Buddhist Council, Toronto.